

PRODUCT REVIEWS

NINTENDO 3DS

The Game Boy allowed us to fight off pixelated goombas and travel down green blocks—er, tubes, all in the name of rescuing our Princess from anywhere outside of the house. Now with the Nintendo 3DS, all our favorite characters can come to life, almost literally. The device's 3-D screen (no glasses required) makes Nintendo's digital world more lifelike than ever. ($249.99)
www.nintendo.com/3ds

IMPERIAL CLASSIC POMADE

For the guy that always wants to look his best, Imperial Classic Pomade is just the thing to keep your locks on lock. This fantastic hair product (available at Razorbacks Barbershop on 4th Street) puts the "pomp" in pompadour with a clean scent and all-day hold to keep you fresh and slick. ($20, 6-oz. jar) imperialbarbershop-products.com.

JAMMIN I-GX

Ever come up with some killer riffs or a melody, but you're miles away from the nearest studio? Well, whip out the i-GX and you're good because this dock-like device allows you to record guitar and vocals straight to your iPod. It's got a four-channel mixer, an amp simulator—and it'll charge your phone to boot. Rock on. ($199) www.dftechprousa.com.

AMPHIBX WATERPROOF ARMBAND

Leave your Shuffle at home because your iPhone has suddenly become very jogging-friendly. H2O Audio's got a sweatproof, waterproof (up to 12 feet) gadget that works with your iPhone (among other smartphones and MP3 players). Take it to the beach for some triathlon training and don't sweat the ocean spray. ($59.99) www.h2oaudio.com.